Communications

Level 6

What is Communications?

Communications (ECCE) is a mandatory module. This relevant communications course will support you to gain important skills required to communicate effectively in a professional work environment. You will learn vital verbal and non-verbal communication skills, active listening skills, formal writing, editing and proof reading skills. A specific focus will be placed on the area of professional early learning and care and childcare and associated appropriate communication skills necessary to meet the needs of children, parents, staff and all other stakeholders. You will also be equipped with knowledge regarding legislation and best practice to include health, safety and welfare at work, data protection and child care legislation. This module can also form part of the following major award:

- 6M2007 Level 6 Early Childhood Care and Education

Who should do this module?

This module is suitable for anyone who would like to begin a rewarding career in the childcare sector. It is also suitable for those who may work in the sector currently and would like the opportunity to improve their communication skills.

This module will provide you with the skills needed to become an effective communicator in your professional and personal life. It will give you the skills to communicate verbally and non-verbally in standard everyday tasks and in work-related tasks, operating independently while under general direction in a healthcare setting.
